Semester

Drama 1A is a beginning theater course that will encourage students to develop communication and performance skills, self-confidence, and the ability to work well with others. Expanding on the concept of CROW (Character, Relationship, Objective and Where) explored during the Drama Wheel, students will work in groups and as soloists in a variety of performance styles. These styles include: pantomimes, improvisational scene work, character study, short monologues, writing and performing scenes, and producing scripted scenes. Very little outside rehearsal time is required. There will be one evening performance for students to present some of their work for families and friends.
